

Joint Directory of Services

Create and maintain your online blended test directory

Need to create a blended test directory for your lab to support your ordering providers—but don't have the IT resources or support to dedicate to this effort?

Our Joint Directory of Services (JDOS) can help further position your organization as a provider of quality lab services and strengthen the relationships you have with ordering physicians. This application enables hospitals and health systems to combine all orderable lab tests—in-house, Quest, or third party—into a single, easy-to-use online test directory for your providers.

Hosted, maintained, and supported by Quest Diagnostics, JDOS™ requires none of your IT or database management resources, while providing your team the flexibility to update your directory as needed. Quest offers this service for a small one-time development fee, with no recurring monthly charges.

Simple

Select the Quest, in-house, or third-party lab tests you want, and create a blended test directory that your trained lab users can easily modify and update

Scalable

Supports any scale, from an individual hospital to a full system rollout, using a single primary account

Customizable

Enables cobranding and customization of the test information you present to providers, ensuring a consistent experience across all subsidiaries

In only a few clicks

Upload your facility's test list

Add or remove any test from the blended directory

Revise test-specific information in real time, including Quest-provided test updates

Create a web page displaying your blended test directory and toggle its visibility as needed

Upload your organization's logo or banner image, and customize text or hyperlink colors to align with your branding

Control which fields appear globally (eg, CPT codes, reference ranges, performed by)

Publish global and test-specific resources, guides, and hyperlinks for providers to quickly access

Download a copy of your full test list for College of American Pathologists (CAP) certification

Track changes to the blended test directory, including what was updated, who approved it, and when

Make it easier for providers to find the tests they need—faster.
